USE OF SIGHT ON A RIFLE

Necessary Because Bullet Cannot Be Made to Travel on a Straight Line.

The average person, if asked to explain why a rifle is sighted, would probably be unable to do so beyond some vague remark about taking correct aim.

Sights are necessary because a bullet does not travel in a straight line; but, under the influence of gravity and friction, begin to drop almost as soon as it leaves the muzzle. Thus the bullet of our service rifle (Lee Enfield) drops six inches in the first 100 yards, but when it has gone 200 yards it will have dropped not 12 inches, but two feet. The drop increases by leaps and bounds with the distance. Were there no sights on the rifle and you wanted to hit a mark at 200 yards, you would clearly have to aim two feet above it.

This would be awkward, for you would lose sight of the object aimed at, to say nothing of the difficulty of correctly estimating a distance of two feet at 200 yards.

The sights of a rifle enable you to keep your eye on the mark, although the muzzle of the rifle is actually pointed above it. The moving slide of the back sight enables you automatically to point the muzzle just so many feet above the mark aimed at as is necessary to counteract the known drop of the bullet at various ranges.—London Answers.

Some Results of Fatigue.

It is known that fatigue shows itself by certain chemical changes in the body, all of the sustaining elements being consumed rapidly, and a kind of intoxication of the cells taking place, because they cannot carry off the waste products rapidly enough. The battery has become clogged and does not reverse properly.

FERNS NEED THE SUNLIGHT

Idea That They Must Be Confined Always to Darkness is a Mistaken One.

The prevalent idea that ferns must have no sun is a wrong one. Ferns will live in the shade, and there are some sorts, of course, that are scorched by the sun. But most ferns that are cultivated in the house like a good deal of sunlight, and never do their best without it.

Window boxes where ferns are growing should be sprinkled lavishly twice a day. If the leaves are dry and dusty they should be well shaken before sprinkling.

If possible, get the earth with which to fill your boxes from an old hotbed—rich loam and rotted manure about half and half.

Failing that, take any which is handy and enrich it with ammonia, and bone meal, mixed thoroughly. A heaping teaspoonful of manure is enough for a six-inch pot of earth. Neither must be kept directly on the roots of the plants. Liquid fertilizer, likewise, must be kept off the roots, stem and leaves. Make a hole at one side of a trench just inside the pot rim, pour in the fertilizer and let it sink, then put back the earth.

The day of harsh physics is gone. People want mild, easy laxatives. Doan's Regulets have satisfied thousands. 25c at all drug stores.—adv.

Alpaca

In spite of attempts to introduce the alpaca into countries away from its native habitat, failure has attended them. It is rarely found below an altitude of 5,000 feet. Its wool is of an exceedingly fine luster and quality, and occasionally attains a length of six inches.

Methodist Church

"Driving Like Jehu" will be the subject of the pastor's sermon next Sunday morning.

One week from next Sunday the Woodmen will attend the service in a body.

At the Junior League next Sunday afternoon, Mr. Best will tell the boys and girls about the Austine Institute in Brattleboro, where all the students are either blind or deaf. We want all the children to hear the interesting story of a visit to his institution.

The new song books for the Epworth League and social meetings have come and will be used at the League service next Sunday evening. The League has also purchased the orchestration of these books for use in the meetings. Persons wishing to buy one of the new books can secure the same at the store of A. R. Campbell.

Mr. Best has been appointed pastor of the Elmore church and will hold services there during the Summer months, beginning two weeks from next Sunday.

Last Sunday evening the Epworth League service was led by Mrs. Chauncey Story. The subject, "What the League is doing in India," was ably handled by the leader. A map of India was drawn by Mrs. Story and was used for the occasion. The country, people and different religions of India were discussed by members of the League, which made the service deeply interesting. Miss Frances Smith rendered a vocal solo. Next Sunday evening the meeting will be led by Miss Thelma Edmunds; subject, "The Promise of Personal Holiness."

Advent Church

Special notice is given of the lecture, evangelical and educational, this week Friday evening at 7:30 o'clock by Rev. M. M. Adams of Springfield, Mass. Mr. Adams is field agent for the Boston Bible School and will present the work of that institution, also show stereopticon views of some of its students, who are now doing good work in home or foreign fields. This promises to be of special interest and a cordial invitation is extended to all.

Rev. P. G. Lord preached last Sunday morning from Ezra 8:21. He spoke of the definition of "fast," the object, value and its place in history and experience. For responsive lesson in Sunday School the class of Junior girls quoted from memory the eighth Psalm. Each Sunday the attendance and contribution are compared with those of one year ago.

Prayer meeting this evening at the usual hour.

This is Our Special Shoe Week

For several weeks we have been preparing for this event and the result is that we have the best assortment of ladies' and children's Spring and Summer Shoes that we have ever shown. We are devoting our largest show window this week to shoes and leathers and think that a few minutes spent looking them over will be time well spent.

White Shoes for Ladies and Children are Ready

This is a little earlier than common, but you all know that if you wait much longer how hard it is to get just what you want as the shoe manufacturers are about ready to think of Fall shoes.

Our Patrician Shoes are Especially Attractive

Our Patrician Shoes appeal strongly to those who want something a little better than the ordinary, not because they cost more but because they are worth more. If you are not familiar with their good points look them over.

We Make a Specialty of Children's Shoes

It is very important to start the little feet in the right way and this can be accomplished best by wearing our natural shape shoes, as they allow the little toes to lay perfectly flat and natural. We also have shoes for children with weak ankles.

Shoes for Tender Feet

If your feet are sensitive so that they cause you lots of trouble, bring them here. We think we have just the shoe you need. You'll never know unless you try.
